Release version change

Starting next release we are adopting a new release versioning format: `year.month.0.cl`.

As a result, next release is 26.2.0.cl. This aligns our versioning approach with how other global companies do their releases.

Introducing SpotCache, ThoughtSpot's new caching layer

On the right, a dialog box titled 'Publish to the data workspace' is open. It contains the following information:

- Name: Promotional discounts
- Dataset details:
 - Source: SQL Query
 - Records: 1000
 - Total columns: 35
 - Size: 8MB
 - Connection: Snowflake
 - Collection: Marketing
 - Schedules: Daily at 9:00 am Eastern Time (US & Canada)
- Warning: The imported table will automatically use the most recent results available. Changes to the Dataset's structure require manual updates to the table and may break content built on it.
- Buttons: Cancel, Publish

At the bottom of the dialog, a green checkmark indicates 'Dataset successfully published' and a button labeled 'Open in data workspace' is available.

What is it?

ThoughtSpot's new caching layer

What's in it for me?

- Unlimited queries, lower cloud costs
- Flexibility with live data and data snapshots
- Predictable, reliable data refreshes
- Prep a unified insight layer for ThoughtSpot

SpotCache is available to all customers today.

If you have Analyst Studio, SpotCache is automatically included (at the default size capacity of 10GB per Org for Enterprise, 5GB per Org for Pro), and you can use it today. If you need more capacity, you can buy this too.

If you do NOT have Analyst Studio, you can buy SpotCache as a standalone offering. Because you access SpotCache through the Analyst Studio interface, you also get the rest of Analyst Studio for free.

Customers are live today with SpotCache with 300+ GB total via multiple Orgs.

Per Org Limits (Enterprise)

*GB Limit ONLY applies to Published Datasets, and not to the working Datasets.

All ThoughtSpot customers who have attended today can try SpotCache for a year, free.

Restrictions apply based on your TSA/TSE subscription and plan. Customer needs to sign-up by April 30, 2026.
